Registration  Visitors to the Swiss Art Archives are asked to register in advance by telephone or in writing. Notice of at least 3 working days must be given when consulting artists’ personal papers.

Desks  Desks are available in the Swiss Art Archives for the use of visitors who are consulting items from the collections. Visitors are requested to bring their own equipment, such as writing materials, laptop, camera etc. Mobile phones, food and drink are not permitted at the desks.

Cloakroom  Coats, jackets, umbrellas, briefcases, laptop cases, bags and other containers must be left in the cloakroom provided for this purpose.

Order slip  Visitors must fill in an order slip for every archive item they wish to consult, thereby declaring that they will comply with the Rules for Users of the Swiss Art Archives. Any infringement of the Rules will result, without prejudice to any other consequences, in a temporary or permanent ban from the Swiss Art Archives.

Liability  Users are liable for any damage to or loss of documents and must compensate the Archives for any costs or expenses incurred.

PC work station  Visitors may use their own laptop. The Swiss Art Archives provide a fixed PC work station for searches on the Internet and in the Archives.

2. Use of the collections

Use

Items in the collections of the Swiss Art Archives may only be used at the desks on site. They may not be borrowed for use at home. Documents in an appropriate condition may be used for exhibition purposes subject to compliance with the contractual terms of the loan. Loans for exhibition purposes require a separate agreement.

Consultation

Items in the collection are essentially available to everyone free of charge. There may, however, be some restrictions of a statutory or contractual nature. Staff are entitled to limit the number of items ordered. Access will not be granted to documents which are still uncatalogued, whose preservation is at risk or which are currently undergoing restoration.

Handling documents

Manuscripts and archive papers are originals. They are unique and irreplaceable. Appropriate handling helps to preserve them:

– Staff will retrieve the documents for users to consult. In some circumstances manuscripts may be counted upon handover and checked upon return to ensure they are complete.

– Documents may only be consulted with clean hands. Gloves supplied by the Archives are to be worn for original documents from personal papers.

– Only pencils may be used for writing. Adhesive (post-it) notes, pieces of paper and other objects must not be used as bookmarks.

– It is strictly forbidden to write on or over documents. Care must be taken when turning pages. Dog ears and fingerprints must be avoided.

– Documents must be kept in the sequence in which they were found in the container.

– Documents should not be subjected to direct sunlight during consultation.

Feedback

Any damage, defect or gap in the documents or any evident fault in sequence should be reported to staff.
